LANGUAGE

Your town lost its paper. You can bring it back.

The AI newsroom handles the hours of reading a small paper can't staff anymore. You decide what runs. · We do the legwork. You do the journalism. · Every story links to its source. · One editor per town.

Plain and direct. The editor is in charge; the bots are Daily News Agents. No emoji, no "democracy," no fake scarcity.

Your town lost its paper. You can bring it back.

Daily News brings a daily local paper back to towns that lost theirs. Each paper has a human editor, works from the public record, and links every story to its source.

The brand should look like a real paper people trust, made by people in their town: warm paper, black ink, one strong dark color and a few bright accents, used with restraint.

LANGUAGE WE USE (LIVE ON DAILY-NEWS.AI)

The AI newsroom handles the hours of reading a small paper can't staff anymore. You decide what runs.

We do the legwork. You do the journalism.

The paper didn't die because nobody cared. It died because nobody could afford the newsroom.

Every story links to its source. · One editor per town.

HOW IT WORKS

Open the record

Every story starts from a public document opened that day: an agenda, a vote, a report.

Draft and check

The AI team helps draft in plain language and link back to the source. Nothing is invented.

The editor

You set the standards and can hold, correct or retract any story. Some editors approve every story first.

PLANS

HOW WE SOUND

- Plain and direct, like a good local editor. Talk to "you" about "your town."
- The editor is the person in charge. The bots are "Daily News Agents": newsroom support that researches and drafts, never the journalist.
- Simple, not easy: be honest that running a paper is real work.
- Lead with the paper and the town, not with AI.
- Leave out: emoji, the word "democracy," fake scarcity, features or partners that aren't live, sentences starting with "Whether."
- Check every number (towns claimed, readers, revenue) before it goes in copy.

The mark

A paper airplane folded from a newspaper: local news, sent out to the town.

It has three parts: the paper edge (the light halo that makes it read as newsprint), the body and the fold. The mark is used on its own, without the name.

RULES

- The primary mark is the neutral plane on Plum. Use neutral on Paper or Ink where Plum doesn't fit, and the color versions where the mark is the whole picture: avatars, app icons, merch, campaign art.
- Smallest size: 16px. The silhouette holds at 16px; the edge and fold read from 32px up.
- Clear space: at least a quarter of the mark's width on every side.
- Use the files as they are: no recoloring outside these sets, outlines, shadows, stretching or redrawing. On photos, put the mark on a solid square of an approved ground.

Color

Paper and Ink are the base of everything. Five brand colors do the talking. Use one or two per piece, never all five.

RED HAS ONE JOB

- Red is the signal: the one call to action on a page, live dots, rules and underlines, big numbers.
- Text on a Red fill is On Red (#030301, 4.9:1). Regular Ink only reaches 4.2:1.
- Red as text on Paper only at 24px and up (3.8:1). On Plum and Ink, switch to Red on dark (#FE5025).
- Keep Red away from Green (same value) and off Yellow and Sky. Put Paper or Ink between them.

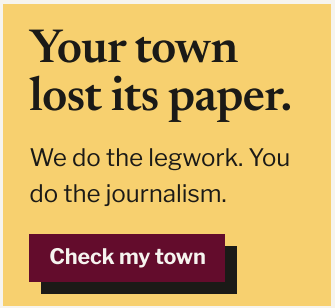

The mark's color versions also use tints and shades that appear only inside the logo files: #706A5B (fold), #DDEBFF, #5181BE, #9BB555, #2B3F00, #FFF1D0, #BF9A34, #EFEFEB. Don't use them elsewhere.

Pairings that work

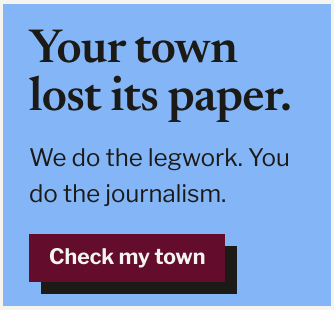

Every pair here passes WCAG 2.2 AA. “All text” is 4.5:1 or better. “Large text and marks” is 3:1 or better: 24px and up, icons, rules. Buttons keep the homepage shape and hard Ink shadow; the fill changes with the ground. On Ink grounds the shadow turns Paper. Buttons are never Ink-filled: use a Paper button with a 2px Ink outline instead.

Illustration

A newspaper folded into a paper airplane, with printed columns visible, against a blue sky.

- Use for heroes, ads, covers and announcements.
- It's an illustration, not the logo. Never shrink it to logo size or put it where the mark belongs.
- New illustrations follow the same idea: ordinary newsprint objects, shown simply. No faces, no glossy AI-art look.
